

PRESIDENT AND SUCCESSOR TO CONFER TUESDAY

YOUNG KIDNAPER, SLAYER SOUGHT FOR TWO CRIMES

Attacked A Chicago Girl After Killing Escort Of Another

Chicago, Nov. 17.—(AP)—A youthful kidnaper-killer early today shot and killed the escort of one young woman and later held up a second couple, abducted the girl in the auto attacked her, and for six hours compelled her to drive the car on around the south side as he eluded scores of police cars.

Just before daybreak the hoodlum let the hysterical girl drive to her home, a half block from which he jumped out of the car and escaped.

The girl was Miss Lillian Henry, 20, telephone operator and a niece of Chicago's former Police Commissioner, John Alcock.

The man slain in the first hold-up was Frank E. Jordan, 38, a salesman.

Girl's Escort Killed

Jordan was slain near midnight. He and Miss Emma Danke, 25, were sitting in an automobile in front of a friend's home when the robber appeared. Jordan evidenced intention of resisting the holdup, and was shot and killed. The slayer fled.

A half hour later the kidnaper opened the door of the car in which Miss Henry and James T. Gulsinger, 23, were sitting in front of the girl's home. He warned them, they said, that he had just shot and killed a man who had resisted him.

The bandit entered the car and compelled Gulsinger to drive into an alley. There he tied Gulsinger's hands and feet and tossed him into the rumble seat. He then gagged the girl and attacked her, she said.

Girl Kept In Car

Compelling the girl to drive the car, he pushed Gulsinger out a few blocks away and left him lying in the street. Gulsinger working himself loose and notified the police.

Miss Henry was kept in the car. The bandit, covering her with his pistol, forced her to drive the car throughout the south side. Several times, she said, they heard the roar of sirens of police cars nearby, but the gunman merely compelled her to drive faster. After several hours of dodging pursuit, the gunman told her to drive to her home.

As they approached the girl's residence he made her stop while he jumped out and escaped.

Another Farmers' Strike Predicted

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 17.—(AP)—A prediction that the National Farm Holiday Association will call another strike of farmers this coming winter, was made by John H. Bosch of Alwatser, Minn., secretary of the organization.

The organization recently conducted a farm strike by asking the farmers to withhold produce from the market in an attempt to obtain higher prices.

Bosch and other members of the organization met here at the same time the National Farm Union held its convention, which adjourned yesterday after re-electing its officers, including John A. Simpson of Oklahoma City, as president.

The Omaha World Herald said a farm holiday body was believed to have formed a secret organization to hold the holiday movement, but Bosch said he knew of no such action.

Try To Discourage Radical "Marchers"

Sioux City, Ia., Nov. 17.—(AP)—Even though the Mayor of Springfield, Ill., has given his permission for an unemployed parade in the Illinois city by 200 hunger marchers from Iowa, the parade is not likely.

No plans for the gathering of an "army" and the mobilization of a fleet of trucks and automobiles to transport the marchers on the imaginative eastern trip have been made here.

The nearest thing to the reported "march" is the contemplated departure within a few days of five or six World War veterans, who believe that passage of the bonus payment plan could be effected by a demonstration in Washington.

One war veteran said that a small group of former service men of the radical type planned to leave, but that efforts were being made to discourage them.

The Sixth Victim Of Crossing Crash Dead

Chicago, Nov. 17.—(AP)—A death toll resulting from an accident in suburban Des Plaines Tuesday in which an auto loaded with hunters was hit by a passenger train mounted to six today.

Four were killed at the time of the accident. A fifth, Clarence A. Norton, 22 of River Grove, died yesterday and the sixth, William Warnicke, 19, Chicago, died this morning. The remaining member of the hunting party Howard Norton, 21, brother of Clarence, escaped injury by jumping from the auto before the impact.

Head Of Slain Rock Falls Youth Is Found

WAS BURIED IN SHALLOW GRAVE CLOSE TO BODY

Two Deep Gashes Indicative Of Manner Of Death

A posse of searchers, composed of farmers and citizens, headed by Whiteside county officers, who were searching the countryside southeast of Erie, near where the nude and decapitated body of William Robinson of Rock Falls was discovered last Saturday, this morning at 10 o'clock were rewarded with the finding of the head. Oscar Roselieb, residing at Spring Hill, one of the volunteer searchers, discovered what appeared to him to have been a recent excavation near a pile of brush, and he summoned other members of the party.

Digging into the leaves and loose dirt, the searchers found the head, which was taken at once to the Slaymaker mortuary at Erie, where Coroner C. M. Frye this afternoon is concluding the inquisition. While badly decomposed, the head after being washed was positively identified as that of the murdered Rock Falls young man.

Two deep gashes on top of the head indicated that the wounds had been inflicted either with an axe or large knife. The left side of the forehead was badly swollen and this was believed to have been caused by a severe blow from a blunt instrument before death. The shallow grave was about 100 feet from where the body was found and about midway between that point and the line fence where the sack, containing the dead man's clothing and food, was discovered.

The grave was described as being about four feet in length, about 12 inches wide and only about eight inches deep. To Whiteside officers who led the half hundred searchers this indicated that Robinson's slayers had planned to bury the body, but later for some unknown reason, had tossed the head into the hole, which was, from all appearances quickly covered with loose dirt and then with dry leaves to preclude possible discovery.

Crews with drag hooks searched Rock river in the vicinity yesterday afternoon and continued their efforts this morning in an effort to find the head. Some of the men were engaged in this work this morning when the crude grave was discovered, while others were carefully inspecting every foot of ground for some evidence of a recent excavation.

Dr. Sickels' Game Trophies To Library

The will of the late Dr. Edward A. Sickels, beloved and prominent Dixon physician, who passed away Sunday morning, provides that his collection of mounted game trophies, one of the finest in this part of the state, shall be turned over to the Dixon Public Library board, to be placed in the library or some public building, for the benefit of the public.

In Dr. Sickels' office the walls carry some seventeen mounted trophies, including the heads of a bull moose, a number of deer with magnificent racks of horns, mountain sheep, wolves, wild boar, mounted rattlesnake, muskellunge etc., representing hunting trips the Dixon physician had made all over the North American continent.

Hold Suspect For Cattleman's Death

Chicago, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Investigation into the slaying of a Montana cattleman several weeks ago in his hotel room here moved today to Lincoln, Ill., where a suspect was to be quizzed.

The victim of the slaying was Henry Shoop, Wibaux, Mont. From there he was taken to the Hotel Erlanson of the Detective Bureau said robbery probably was the motive.

Learning that a Jack Lane was among the men who accompanied Shoop to his room the day of the killing, Erlanson went to Lincoln today to question Lane when notified he was being held there.

"CHEROKEE STRIPS" MAY BECOME NECESSARY IN BOTH HOUSES OF THE NEW CONGRESS AS RESULT OF VOTES

Washington, Nov. 17.—(AP)—In capturing a dozen Republican seats in the new Senate and almost a hundred in the House, the Democrats have cause for jubilation, but with it all there is a possibility some of the newcomers may have to sit with the Republicans.

These political overflows have occurred before, but more often from the Republican to the Democratic side. When it was the other way around the Democrats usually found room to crowd in their extra flock. But next year, with the large Democratic majorities, it may be different.

Party secretaries now are facing figuring whether it will be necessary to create on the Republican side in each house "Cherokee strips" to take care of those extra Democrats who may be forced to "wander off the reservation" as the Oklahoma redskins used to do voluntarily.

The first "Cherokee strip" was installed in the House in 1891 when the Democrats had 238 members against 89 Republicans. Almost complete returns show the Democrats and only 114 Republicans. Unless the center aisle is moved into existing Republican territory it is going to be difficult to avoid another "strip."

DIXON BOYS WIN NATIONAL MEAT-JUDGING CONTEST

Local High School Team Awarded Championship Last Night

The Dixon high school meat judging team, champions of Illinois, was awarded the national championship at the contest held in Kansas City over the week end, announcement of the award being made at the annual banquet in connection with the American Royal Livestock and Horse Show there last evening. Arkansas, California, Minnesota and Texas, followed the Illinois (Dixon) team in the order named.

Members of the team are Elton Williams, Melvin Fisel, Wilmer Gerdes and Donald Miller; and in the ranking of individuals in the national contest Williams scored first, being awarded a ten-volume encyclopedia; Fisel was second and Gerdes third. The team, as a unit, was given a large silver cup, emblematic of the national championship.

Prof. John Weiss, director of agricultural vocation in the Dixon high school who coached the team into first place Monday afternoon, was highly honored while attending the show, in being appointed general manager of the national livestock judging during the show.

The appointment came as a surprise from Director Linke of Washington, D. C., of the Department of Agriculture. Prof. Weiss and his national championship meat judging team will return to Dixon Friday afternoon after spending a week at the Kansas City show.

Acting Mayor Of N. Y. In Daring Break With Tammany Hall

New York, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Acting Mayor Joseph V. McKee, breaking openly with Tammany Hall, has sounded a summons to a crusade against what he calls waste, extravagance and abuses in the city government.

The Bronx Democrat's denunciation of the forces in control of the city government was discussed excitedly throughout the city today.

Rising last night before bankers, merchants and businessmen at a dinner, McKee, who has advocated a policy of sharp retrenchment, declared in a voice trembling with emotion that citizens are sick and tired of present conditions "and they are not going to allow those things to continue." He did not, however, mention Tammany by name.

His speech, wholly unexpected, was seen by political observers as foreshadowing a possible titanic struggle at next year's mayoral election to wrest the city government from Tammany and allies, with McKee perhaps leading the assault.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 17.—(AP)—Twelve Chicago breweries filed articles of incorporation with the Secretary of State today, proposing to engage in the manufacture, sale and distribution of beverages and malt products.

They were: Bermonoff Brewing Co., Citizens Brewery Co., Eagle Brewing Co., Fortune Brothers Brewing Co., Hoffman Brothers Brewing Co., Independent Brewing Co., Old Style Lager Co., Schoenofen Brewing Co., Seippis Brewing Co., Manhattan Brewery Co., Miller Brewing Co. and Northwestern Brewing Co.

Chicago Promised Snow

Chicago, where lake breezes tempered the weather, was assured another day of late fall temperatures but expected snow by Friday. In downstate areas, however, yesterday's storm hit in all its fury and many were engaged today in clearing the highways and restoring broken communication lines.

Eastern Missouri looked for more snow before sunset but Colorado and New Mexico trusted in the weather man's prediction of fair and warmer.

Airplanes on commercial lines were kept on the ground at Buffalo and Pittsburgh yesterday. Minnesota, Wisconsin, and the Dakotas, where inhabitants have had a taste of chilling weather earlier, delighted in more moderate temperatures.

MOB PREVENTS CAPITAL MINE WORKING TODAY

Deputy Sheriffs And State Police Mocked By Strikers

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 17.—(AP)—A mob of one thousand pickets today successfully defeated the purpose of the Peabody Coal Company to open the Cora mine near here, mocked Highway Police when they threw tear gas bombs at them, and severely beat two miners who attempted to pass their lines.

William Becraft, 31, and his step-father, Hector Collard, 48, both United Mine Workers employed by the Peabody Company, were pulled from their automobile and slugged over the heads, inflicting deep scalp wounds. They drove up to the edge of the crowd, and then into it, but were stopped by pickets who jumped on the running board and clubbed them.

After the two men were pulled from the machine, the pickets turned their fury on the tires of the car and the glass windows, and continued until it was a complete wreck.

Officers Helpless

Fifteen deputies from the Sheriff's office and twenty-five state Highway Police stood by, but were powerless in the face of the huge gathering. They attempted to clear a way through the crowd by throwing tear gas bombs, but gave it up when they saw the affected miners held in their places by the push of the men behind them.

It was directly after the bombs were thrown that the attack on the two miners took place. Anticipating the need for increased guard duty, Sheriff Bey-

WINTRY BLAST SPENDING SELF ALONG ATLANTIC

Nation's Weather Map As Spotted As Polka Dot Dress

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The nation's weather map was as spotted today as a polka dot dress.

A wintry blast that moved across the country from the west yesterday appeared to be spending itself in a final burst of fury at scattered points along the eastern seaboard and in the south.

While the Pacific northwest was welcoming surcease from a stormy spell New York was awaiting the chilly onslaught which had reached Pittsburgh.

The snow was melting on the prairies of eastern Kansas today while Washington, D. C. was faced with prediction of "much colder" tonight.

Cold Down In Dixie

And away down south in Dixie New Orleans was anticipating freezing weather, and Atlanta said the mercury near 20 degrees above.

Michigan was still blanketed with snow but Oklahoma, which saw the mercury drop to 14 yesterday, was promised a letup in the cold snap by nightfall.

Though snow covered the mountains of Utah and Idaho the temperature today had returned to normal. Northern and western Texas were shuddering in freezing and sub-freezing weather but Montana temperatures were climbing upward.

The New England states, despite heavy fog or rain in all portions, were not yet threatened with winter's blasts and reported temperatures ranging from 46 at Northfield, Vt., upward to 58 at New Haven.

Indianapolis was digging itself out of the heaviest snow fall the Hoosier capital had experienced in 30 years. In the city 8.8 inches of snow fell yesterday while in central and northern Indiana 12 inches were common in many places. In some sections rural schools were forced to close.

Mayor Adds His Support To Kitchen—

The Dixon Loyalty League Community Kitchen is being organized to relieve citizens of Dixon of the burden of frequent requests to supply food to destitute persons. These demands are of various kinds.

Undernourished children deserve first consideration and provision for them is a leading part of the plan of the organization.

Supplying food to transients can be more successfully accomplished in the manner in which it is planned to conduct the Community Kitchen.

Citizens are requested to refer all transient applicants for food to the Police Department where they will be investigated and in proper cases arrangements for giving them food at the Community Kitchen will be made by the police.

The Community Kitchen is a most worthy institution deserving generous financial support and gifts of surplus foods by the people of Dixon.

(Signed) George C. Dixon, Mayor

three bushels of carrots were received from the Frank Sproul grocery on North Calena avenue and a bushel of carrots were to be delivered Friday, coming from Galesburg, and donated by an enthusiast who had heard of the Dixon Loyalty League plan. Potatoes, onions, carrots, celery, turnips and other vegetables will be received in any quantities.

To Collect Donations

The red bird houses have been distributed and placed in more than a hundred Dixon places of business. Citizens are requested to donate as liberally as possible to this cause, all of the funds coming from this source being used exclusively in the operation of the Community Kitchen. More than 200 needy and deserving children will benefit by being given hot soup and fresh milk daily.

Members of the Dixon Loyalty League will be furnished tickets to be distributed to deserving Dixon residents only. The police department will have tickets which will be furnished transients. No tickets will be given transients by merchants, this part of the program being handled solely by the police department. Citizens are urged to cooperate by sending transients soliciting food to the Chief of Police.

RECENT ELECTION DID NOT CHANGE LAW OR CONSTITUTION, BISHOPS OF M. E. CHURCH WARNED CONGRESS

New York, Nov. 17.—(AP)—The Board of Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal church declaring that "for humanity and genuine prosperity we must have prohibition," today called on Congress "to stand by its adherence to the Constitution and its enforcing laws."

"The recent election did not change the Constitution or any national law," said the Bishops in their statement, which was formulated in Scranton, Pa., on Tuesday and made public here where the Bishops are attending the meeting of the church's Foreign Missions Board.

Asserting that "until laws are changed by the orderly legal processes, public officials are under obligation to be guided by them," the Bishops asked all responsible for law enforcement to remember their oath of office.

"It is evident," the statement said, "that a violent effort is being made to stampede the present Congress. This Congress has repeatedly by its vote shown itself dry."

and people should let their representatives in both houses of Congress know that we expect them not to recede from the dry stand they have steadily taken. We will face the new conditions created by the new Congress when it is called in session."

CHARGE NEGRO WITH PLOT TO GET HERO MEDAL

Beloit Colored Man Planned To 'Save' Pres. Hoover

Janesville, Wis., Nov. 17.—(AP)—A plot to claim a hero's reward after endangering President Hoover's special train when it passed through Beloit November 5, en route to St. Paul, was charged by authorities today against Henry Vance, 37, Beloit Negro, held on a larceny charge.

Sheriff J. S. Fessenden said Vance admitted he and others had planned to remove several spikes from the Chicago & NorthWestern tracks and then notify Beloit police that an attempt had been made to wreck the presidential train in the hope of getting a reward.

The confession, the Sheriff said, was obtained after Councilman E. R. Branigan of Beloit had withdrawn a $1,000 bond which he had posted for Vance and the latter was lodged in the county jail. Vance had been free on bond after arraignment on a charge of breaking and entering a Northwestern Railroad tool house.

Vance was arrested by railroad detectives while walking along the tracks several hours before the presidential special was due to arrive. He was carrying a crowbar which he said he was returning to Hayes White, another Negro, from whom he borrowed it. Hayes was also arrested, but denied ownership of the crowbar or any plot to wreck the President's train. He was released.

ONCE WERE FRIENDS

Executive Mansion, Albany, N. Y., Nov. 17.—(AP)—Governor Roosevelt's telephone conversation with President Hoover today was the first exchange of importance between the two rivals for the presidency since World War days when the Hoovers and the Roosevelts were intimate friends in Washington.

Mr. Roosevelt and the President have met twice since the latter days of the war, but on each occasion the conversation was limited to conventional salutations.

The last meeting between the President-elect and Mr. Hoover was last spring at the Governor's Conference in Richmond, Va., and a few days later at the White House when President and Mrs. Hoover entertained the Governors.

Two years before, Mr. Roosevelt was a member of the executive committee of the conference which called upon the President at the White House.

HOOVER GIVEN MESSAGE FROM GOV. ROOSEVELT

Latter Will Arrive At White House At 3:30 Tuesday Afternoon

Washington, Nov. 17.—(AP)—President-elect Roosevelt today informed President Hoover by long distance telephone that he would arrive at 3:30 Tuesday afternoon and would go directly to the White House for a discussion of war debt problems.

The call from Albany reached the White House about 12:45 P. M. But a short while before the French and Belgian Ambassadors had been informed at the State Department that this government was not ready as yet to reply to the petitions from their governments looking toward extension of the moratorium and further debt revision.

Mr. Hoover spoke with his successor-elect from his desk in the executive offices.

It is planned that the two leaders will confer on debts, world armaments and economic affairs in the executive offices.

The parley, however, might extend into conversation in the Lincoln study on the second floor of the White House proper.

CHICAGO'S DAIRY
INTERESTS PLAN
PRICE REDUCTION

Cut May Be Divided Between Three Branches Of Industry

Chicago, Nov. 17—(AP)—The Pure Milk Association, cooperative organization of 17,000 farmers in three states selling milk in Chicago was charged today in a bill filed in Federal Court with violating the Sherman anti-trust laws.

Also named defendants in the bill in equity were the Milk Wagon Drivers Union, which has 7000 members in Chicago, and 77 firms and individuals in the dairy industry.

The bill was filed on behalf of the Meadowmoor Dairies, Inc., by Attorney Arthur F. Albert, a former alderman.

It charges the defendants "unlawfully combined to prevent the plaintiff from doing business in Chicago because it undersold other companies." Various acts were cited, including alleged orders of union officials preventing their members from working for the complaining company.

Negotiations toward a reduction of the present price of 11 cents a quart for milk have been started between the producers, distributors, and wagon drivers, all of whom have refused to bear the brunt of any cut.

Chicago, Nov. 17—(AP)—The business of supplying millions of gallons of milk yearly to the nation's second largest city was perturbed today with demands for price reductions.

And from three sides—the producers, the distributors, and the city—demands for price reductions were being made.

Chicago pays 11 cents a quart of milk, a price of from three to five cents a quart higher than that maintained in other midwest cities. But, members of the Pure Milk Association declared, the producer receives considerably less than in other sections.

Members of the Distributors' Association announced today that "news of a retail price reduction probably will be forthcoming in a few days." The distributors indicated a belief the reduction would be divided equally among the three branches of the industry.

Upwards of 50,000 families in three states depend for their livelihood upon some branch of the dairy industry that supplies Chicago. There are 20,000 dairies operating in Illinois, Wisconsin and Indiana supplying the milk, 7,000 union men driving milk wagons in Chicago, and thousands of others engaged in distributing the produce.

Pressure has been brought to bear upon the union for the drivers to accept a $5 a week wage reduction. The drivers were cut from $50 to $45 a week only six months ago and recently refused to accept a $10 reduction.

In comparison to a top price of $2.75 per hundred pounds paid to farmers in 1929, the producers now receive $1.85. Leaders of the Pure Milk Association insist the farmers are operating without profit at present and can not take a cut.

Arrested Woman
Gave Wrong Name

Chicago, Nov. 17—(AP)—Capt. James U. Sammis of the Lincoln Park police asserted today that investigation had shown a woman who gave the name of Mary Cruise private secretary to William J. Stratton, Secretary of State, when arrested Tuesday was really Marion Alberts, formerly of Davenport, Iowa.

The woman was fined $25 and costs on a charge of disorderly conduct yesterday and her escort was sent to the House of Correction for 90 days for driving while intoxicated. When arrested the police said she threatened to "get their jobs" through her political connection.

Capt. Sammis said the woman had given the name of Miss Cruise to shield her identity. Miss Rose M. Cruise once employed in the state office when Louis L. Emerson was Secretary of State, is a resident of the same apartment building as Miss Alberts.

Display Of Leonids
Was Complete Flop

Williams Bay, Wis., Nov. 17—(AP)—The Leonid show "flopped" because the curtain wouldn't rise.

Dr. Otto Struve, director of the Yerkes Observatory of the University of Chicago, said that the annual display of the shower of meteors known as Leonids, which occurs between Nov. 14 and 17, was a loss as far as his observers were concerned because all three nights were cloudy. No observations of any value were made.

The recalcitrance of the weather gods in refusing to expose the show to the gaze of eager students was particularly disappointing this year, as astronomers, calculating from previous displays, expected the gradually increasing number of meteors to reach a climax. They have been steadily increasing since 1929.

There is also a major 33-year cycle in the appearance of the meteor shower. The 1833 display was described as "a rain" or stars. In 1866 this was repeated. In 1899 another home in and spoiled the show. This year the major climax should again have been reached.

CHANCELLOR OF
GERMAN NATION
FORCED TO QUIT

Opposition To Von Papen Increases: His Cabinet Resigns

Berlin, Nov. 17—(AP)—The entire German cabinet resigned today and the resignation was accepted by President von Hindenburg.

Adolf Hitler's National Socialists, the strongest party in the opposition, never have supported von Papen's administration.

The Centrists, the Bavarians and all the others except the Nationalists and the Populists have announced their opposition since the last Reichstag election. That left the Chancellor with only 10 per cent of the new Reichstag.

Berlin, Nov. 17—(AP)—Chancellor Franz von Papen's cabinet, facing determined opposition from all but two small parties in the Reichstag, considered its course for an hour today but reached no decision regarding the advisability of resigning.

During the session there were conflicting reports, some of them from sources which usually are reliable, that the Chancellor would resign, permitting the cabinet to remain in office, and that the entire cabinet would step out, leaving the President free to reorganize the government.

No Decision Reached
An official communique after the cabinet meeting said no formal decision had been reached. It was generally believed that the Chancellor now will talk with the President before deciding upon his next move.

Adolf Hitler, the most powerful opposition leader, informed the Chancellor by letter that he would not deal with him in negotiations for re-forming the government and that he would visit President von Hindenburg only if he were assured that the Chancellor would not be present.

The situation is much the same now as it was at the time Chancellor von Papen dissolved the previous Reichstag which also was hostile to his administration.

Opposition Grows
Since the election which followed the dissolution the opposition has increased. With the support of only the Nationalists and the Populists the government can count on only ten per cent of the Reichstag.

The National Socialists, the Centrists, the Bavarians and all the others form the opposition. These parties have refused to negotiate with the Chancellor, removing the possibility of his governing by toleration.

One course is still open. If President von Hindenburg wants the Chancellor to remain despite the opposition the Reichstag may be dissolved and government by decree resumed.

Even the pro-government newspapers, however, describe von Papen's position as hopeless. Hans Bracht, governing Prussia as Federal Commissioner, and Carl Goerdeler, Mayor of Leipzig, have been suggested to succeed him.

RETURNING

TS I would be back in the cool summer morning That dawns on the mountains of Eleana a' Cheo— That glides the old towers so massive and hoary. And showers with gold the bright waters below.

Dunvegan, Dunvegan—the dawn winds are calling Above the low waves of your shimmering sea— Again to the islands—and you bonny Sholto— "Come over, come up to the North, and be free!"

"It here in the South I could gain gold and tinsel; It's here in the South I could lose the dark sky. The dark hills of Vaternish have my heart's keeping. For wide are their seas, and other heavens are high.

Dunvegan, Dunvegan—your bright loch tomorrow! The silvery mist in the valleys once more— And after the boats come in Sholto my real love. A wide world of moonlight on ocean and shore.

Riverside P. T. A. Met at Schoolhouse

Last Friday evening the P. T. A. of the Riverside school met at the schoolhouse. The meeting was called to order by the President, Mrs. Will Morris, and opened by all singing with Mr. Whitney leading.

The messages from the State President were read by Marion Bieschke. Minutes of last meeting were read and approved, a short report of the District meeting of the P. T. A. which was held at Sterling was given by the delegate, Mrs. Elmer Whitney.

The president announced the meeting of the Mothers Study Group on Friday afternoon of this week at 3:30 at the school house. All mothers are invited to be present. There being no further business the meeting was turned over to the leader, Mrs. Elmer Whitney. The topic was Libraries and was well handled and some good information was given as well as helpful suggestions in what sort of reading is useful and of benefit to the individual, and how to select good reading. All were very fortunate in having with them Mrs. J. E. Reagan, of Dixon who in her pleasing way gave several selections of readings, and Miss Ora Photo added much to the program by a vocal solo.

The school children gave several selections on the piano, as well as vocal numbers and the first graders gave some of their reading work, these numbers were all a part of their regular school work and it was noticed how they have improved since the last meeting of the P. T. A. These meetings are an inspiration to the teacher and pupil, and bring the parents in closer touch with the work their children are doing.

The meeting was adjourned and the hospitality committee for November, had a few guessing tests, and while refreshments were being served a large pumpkin was placed on the table of which the weight was to be guessed. All present felt it had been an evening well spent.

Mrs. Chas. Ives and daughter Arlene from Franklin Grove, were guests of the evening.

Thanksgiving Dinners Will Be Easy On the Pocketbook

Chicago, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Thanksgiving day dinners are going to be easy on the pocketbook this year.

Everything that goes into the traditional dinner for that day is cheaper, much cheaper than last year, except eggs.

Whatever is chosen for the headline attraction, be it turkey, goose, duck or plain old roast beef, the cost will be almost enough less to permit buying of the "trimmings" with what is saved.

Turkeys are now quoted wholesale from 8 to 10 cents a pound lower in price than at this time in 1931. The average retail price will run between 25 and 30 cents a pound. The reason ascribed is a turkey crop that is 13 per cent larger than last year with the bulk of birds large and in excellent shape.

Chickens, ducks and geese are selling from 5 to 8 cents a pound lower, with demand for these fowls reported to be heavy. Prices on these have not been as low since around 1905.

Butter will cost around 7 or 8 cents a pound less, but eggs will probably be higher. A pronounced shortage has caused prices to rise and wholesale quotations are now 2 or 3 cents a dozen over year ago.

Garnishes for the dinner are low in price. Sweet potatoes are retailing around 6 or 8 pounds for a quarter and squash can be purchased for a comparative song. Cranberries are also somewhat cheaper as are oysters for the dressing.

A turkey dinner for six people can be prepared, so dietitians say, for less than a five dollar bill.

Readers Asked To Report Dinner Plans—

Readers who plan to entertain on Thanksgiving Day are requested to phone or write The Telegraph's society editor, Mrs. Holdridge, telephone No. 5 as early as possible in order that a complete list may be published on Wednesday before Thanksgiving. It is desired that as many as possible of the intended dinners be reported this week.

Sandwiches The Children Like

Children who take lunches to school each day get tired of sandwiches, without realizing why. Variety always adds interest to them. Why not get a few fancy cutters and have round sandwiches once in a while, or heart-shaped ones? Use brown and white bread together for a cream cheese and jelly sandwich. Make some date bread for a change. Try watercress instead of lettuce. Every effort you make to vary their sandwiches will be amply repaid by their increased interest in their lunches.

Director Barnes Is Highly Recommended

On Sunday afternoon the Symphonic Choir of Rockford, is to give a sacred concert at the Presbyterian church in Dixon at 4:15 o'clock. The choir is to be directed by Prof. Myron E. Barnes of Rockford and the pianist will be Ralph Brigham, also of Rockford. Both of these gentlemen are highly recommended, and a few excerpts from letters of praise and newspapers are given below:

Prof. Myron E. Barnes

Copy of letter from Rev. Robert Nelson Brockway, Minister of the First Presbyterian Church of Winnebago, Ill.

Dear Mr. Barnes:

I am glad to have been delayed a few days in sending you this word, for it has given time for a multitude of fine comments from all sources. The concert brought to our church by your Symphonic Choir was not only a superb bit of work from the standpoint of music, but it was exceptionally attractive and entertaining.

Our people were enthusiastic. For the sake of the music-loving public, I sincerely hope you may have a busy winter.

Cordially yours,

Herbert N. Brockway.

Copy of letter from Mrs. Oscar Foster, Director of Music at the First M. E. Church, Beloit, Wis.

Dear Mr. Barnes:

You have a very, very fine choir. The program Sunday night was thrilling to me, and I know the audience felt the same way. Rev. Schlagerhay said the singers were inspired!

We enjoyed Mr. Brigham's part very much, too. The spirit of the entire group was so splendid.

Very sincerely,

Fannie Foster.

Ralph H. Brigham

The Disapora, Chicago—

While in Chicago, Mr. Ralph H. Brigham made an excellent reputation as an interpreter of pictures and as one of the most capable players in the central west.

New York Times—

(Reviewing organ recital at Pat-

tohogue, N. Y.)

Mr. Brigham produced wonderful music from the great pipe organ, one moment light as a violin, and the next fairly thundering elaborate harmony, as if he had a whole orchestra under his hands.

A concert which attracted much interest was given by Ralph H. Brigham. He is an organist of great talent.

Dramatic Mirror—

His program for pictures rang true and he has what so many organists lack — enthusiasm and vision.

Musical Courier—

Ralph H. Brigham's playing of the organ is that of a highly talented man. Excerpts from "Lohengrin," the Wagner "Dreams," and Tchaikowsky symphony excerpts showed his selective capacity and discrimination.

HISTORY TURNS A CORNER.

As the election recedes farther and farther into the past, it becomes clear that what happened on Nov. 8 was nothing less than the end of an epoch in American history.

The post-war period, at last, may be said to be over. What future historians will call the eight or ten years that lie ahead of us is beyond guessing just now, but that 1932 will be some sort of dividing line for them seems assured.

Not only was a Democratic administration elected. The really significant thing about it all is that a full stop was put on the record of the course the country has taken since the war.

Smoot and Watson, joining the lame ducks, stand as symbols of what happened.

These men are the Senate's last links with the famous "old guard" of bygone days. They connect the government with the day of Penrose and Lodge and Harding. Their departure signifies the beginning of that much-talked-of and loosely-described thing, "a new deal."

For the overturn in the election, indisputably was chiefly due to the miseries the country had suffered during the past three years; and these, in turn, are all a part of the post-war epoch, bound up with the path the nation elected to follow in those trying years.

It has taken this nation longer than it has taken any other to revise its post-war course. England turned to Stanley Baldwin and then swung sharply away; France gave Poincare the helm and then dropped him; Germany swung in half a dozen different directions, and is now headed exactly opposite to the line charted in the first years of peace. Now America, too, finds that a new orientation is necessary.

What will happen now? Your guess is as good as the next man's. We can only be sure that it will be something different. A new day has begun. Whether it will be better or worse than the day just ended depends on the courage and wisdom of our new leaders. The one certain thing is that it will be different.

THE STRAIN OF OFFICE.

There is something deeply human and appealing about President Hoover's remark that he had had, on the second night following the election, the best sleep he had had in weeks. It serves as a sharp reminder that a president fighting a losing fight for re-election has to pay for it in great physical weariness and deep agitation of the spirit.

We make symbols of our public men, in this land, and we usually forget that they are just as subject to the ills of the flesh as the rest of us. A worn-out, discouraged and uncertain president feels just as badly as a worn-out, discouraged and uncertain salesman; he tosses restlessly, at night in bed, in just the same way, and his body pays the same kind of toll.

The past months have not been easy ones for President Hoover. His fellow countrymen join in a friendly wish that he gets the rest that he needs so badly.

FLORIDA'S JOBLESS PROBLEM.

The delightful summer weather which the state of Florida enjoys in the middle of the winter is a thing that has become, quite properly, famous all up and down the land. But it begins to appear that in a time of depression this balmy weather can bring the state a new problem.

The nation contains a lot of unemployed men, and it seems that in the winter time a good many of them have a habit of bumbling their way down to Florida. They may not get jobs there, but it's easier to sleep out nights where the air is warm than it is in a land where there is a foot of snow on the ground and more coming.

And Florida doesn't know just how to handle the situation. Her traditional hospitality to visitors prevents her from stationing guards at her borders to keep the non-paying guests out. But she has her own indigent to take care of, and she doesn't want a lot that don't belong to her.

It's our guess that the alms-seeker in Florida this winter will be asked a lot of searching questions about his place or origin before he gets a hand-out.

He who calls himself a 100 per cent Briton, or a 100 per cent Frenchman, or a 100 per cent American, is today likely to be the most dangerous and the most effective enemy that his countrymen can have.—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University.

To compare patriotism with Christianity is like comparing margarine with butter.—Lord Mamhead, in England. I look healthier, but I really need to take care of myself.—Samuel Insull, former utilities czar, after his transfer from jail to hospital in Athens.

What the world, business, industry and labor need above all is tranquility, quiet, relief from political excitement.—Franz von Papen, Chancellor of Germany.

Since the war there has been some moral injustice toward Italy.—Edouard Herriot, Premier of France.

'MAN OF MANY RELIGIONS' LEAVES TRAIL OF TROUBLE

Europe Fears Ex-Spy and Forger Who, Born a Jew, Has Embraced Anglican, Presbyterian and Quaker Faiths—And Now Is A Buddhist Monk!

ELECTED TO THE BRITISH HOUSE OF COMMONS

TREBITSCH-LINCOLN AS HE APPEARS TODAY

ARRESTED IN NEW YORK —AND EXTRADITED

IN THE FLOWING ROBES OF A BUDDHIST MONK

WARNED BRITAIN OF HIS "POWER" IN ASIA

BY MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Writer

London—Heads of the British Secret Service and of Scotland Yard breathed a sigh of relief the other day then they learned that the Belgian authorities had booted out of Brussels and back into Germany Ignatius Timothy Trebitsch-Lincoln, forger, spy and self-admitted enemy of England. The father that man is from English shores the better pleased is English officialdom.

Probably no man who ever broke into news print has had a stranger career than this deportee. In his time he has changed names, religions, citizenships, vocations with the same ease and facility with which a snake casts off its old skin.

He was born in Paks, Hungary, in 1879. His father was a Jewish trader in grain. In 1897 he turned up in London, still Trebitsch, but having been converted to the Presbyterian faith. In 1901 he left for Canada, charged with the mission of converting the Jews. But he soon changed religions again, this time becoming a member of the Church of England and being given charge of a small church at Halifax, Nova Scotia.

ELECTED AN M. P.

Then he reappeared in England. By this time he had a hyphenated name and was known as Trebitsch-Lincoln. He acted for a time as curate of a church. Next this sampler of all the faiths became a Quaker, got interested in politics, was nominated as a Liberal candidate for the House of Commons from the Darlington district and was elected.

When the World War broke out, he was for a time censor of Hungarian letters in the postoffice and was then sent on a mission to Rotterdam. Upon his return he pretended to have wormed great secrets out of the Germans and made himself a nuisance at the Admiralty. The officials there suspected him of treachery and in 1916 he left suddenly for the United States.

Shortly afterward he was arrested in New York on a charge of forgery, preferred by the British authorities. Before that, being needy, he had written some newspaper articles in which he told how he had double-crossed England in favor of Germany, repelled, as he said, by British cruelty to aliens in England. He loudly protested against his arrest, saying it was a frame-up by the British to get him back to London so they could deal with him as a spy.

In February, 1916, he escaped from jail, but was arrested by detectives shortly afterward while strolling on Broadway. He had shaved off his mustache and thought he was completely disguised. In May, 1916, the United States Supreme Court decided he must be extradited and he was sent back to England for trial.

TRIED IN ENGLAND

Speaking to the jury during his trial, he said:

"I've had many strange adventures in my short life, but none has come up to this. Oho, it is most, most entertaining! Get the picture—this great and mighty British lion is afraid and shaking before me—I, T. T. Lincoln."

The judge was not a bit afraid. He sent him to penal servitude for three years and in 1919, when the sentence was completed, he was deported to Hungary. He turned up in September, 1919, on a visit to Amerongen where the ex-Kaiser was staying. He was supposed to be on a mission for the German monarchists, but it was carefully given out that he had seen only the ex-Kaiser's staff officers.

"I told the British I would devote my life to working against England, I am already beginning."

REBEL IN GERMANY

The amazing creature next turned up in the Kapp putch which sought to overthrow the German republican government. Trebitsch-Lincoln was chief of its press bureau. In 1925 he benefitted from the amnesty granted by President Hindenburg to political offenders. He skipped from Germany and was said to be the adviser of the Chinese leader, Wu Pei Fu, and to be the organizer of anti-British propaganda.

In February, 1926, he was arrested in Vienna, charged with selling forged documents to Czechoslovakian officials purporting to show that Germany and Austria were trying to stir up a revolution in Czechoslovakia. He was dismissed, left Vienna, and seemed to have dropped out of the world.

Late in 1926, one of his sons serving in the British army, was sentenced to death for murder. Then to the amazement of the British, they learned that Trebitsch-Lincoln had been living in the British possession of Ceylon. He had hidden away in a Buddhist monastery where he was studying to be a monk.

EMBRACES BUDDHISM

Next he turned up in a Buddhist monk's costume in Shanghai, in Pekin, anywhere that there was trouble in China. Early in October of this year he landed in Brussels with a Chinese passport in the name of Chao Kung, his new appellation. He was still a Buddhist monk and stated he had come to Europe to found a Buddhist monastery. When the Belgians rushed him back to Germany, he delivered one parting shot:

"This is due to the diabolical machinations of the British government. I want them to leave me strictly alone, for if not, the just retribution for their evil deeds will surely overtake them. If Britain refuses to leave me in peace, I shall drive her out of Asia. I can do it. I have the power to do it."

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The melon soon was saved in two and happy Windy shouted, "Ooooo! I guess we'd better saw some more, to make the pieces small."

"That's much too much for any one to eat a half," "I would be no fun. I want about a quarter of a half, and that is all."

"There are few melons left this year. In fact, I only have two here. We may as well just eat them up, 'cause that is what they're for."

My, what a feast the Tinies had. Soon Scoutly said, "Gee, it is sad that we can't eat up all there is, but I fear we'd get sick."

"The portion that I had was good, and I ate all I really could. Before we started I was hungry. Now I'm feeling sick."

Then Duncy had a crazy plan. To all the rest he cried, "I can show you a clever stunt. Come, Scoutly, you lend a hand."

"We'll use a piece of melon rind to teeter-totter. 'Twill be fine." This interested Scoutly and he said, "I think that's grand."

A very large slice soon was found. They promptly set it on the ground. Then Duncy said, "Who'll get on first? It's pretty far to climb." The farmer said, "I'll help this treat by putting each one in a seat. Now do not try to rush me. Both you lads have lots of time."

A smile spread on brave Scoutly's face as he was lifted into place. Then Duncy, too, was lifted up. "All right," the farmer cried. "Go and teeter to and fro. Lean forwards, lads. Away you'll go!" They soon picked up momentum and it was a dandy ride.

A BOOK A DAY

Most Americans today remember Stanford White chiefly as the man who was killed by Harry A. Thaw; and when they remember that, they generally recall vaguely that a lot of stuff came out at the trial of Thaw tending to show that White was a good deal of a monster, personally.

Now, however, comes Frederick L. Collins, with a book, "Glamorous Sinners," which is an indignant and capable attempt to remind everyone that White deserves from posterity a far better break than he has been given.

Mr. Collins studies the whole sorry mess of the shooting and the trial in great detail, and makes it pretty clear:

First, that Stanford White was a truly great architect, a man who gave to his countrymen a lot of genuine and enduring beauty and did much to make New York's streets pleasing to the eye.

Second, that his reputation was very unjustly attacked at Thaw's trial, and that in reality White was a cultured gentleman and a decent citizen, better than the average, rather than worse, in his relations with women.

Thaw and Evelyn Nesbit come in for Mr. Collins' wholehearted contempt. "Glamorous Sinners," in short, asserts that White was glamorous but not much of a sinner, and that these two were sinners but not glamorous. It is a refreshing book, and one that should help lift the cloud that has settled on a great man's reputation.

This Woman Lost 45 Pounds of Fat

"Dear Sirs: For 3 months I've been using your salts and am very much pleased with results. I've lost 45 lbs., 6 inches in hips and bust measure. I've taken 3 bottles—one lasting 5 weeks. I had often tried to reduce by dieting but never could keep it up, but by cutting down and taking Kruschen I've had splendid results. I highly recommend it to my friends."—Mrs. Carl Wilson, Mantion, Mich.

To lose fat SAFELY and HARMLESSLY, take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast—don't miss a morning. To hasten results go light on fatty meats, potatoes, cream and pastries—a bottle that lasts 4 weeks costs but a trifle—but don't take chances—be sure it's Kruschen—your health comes first—get it at any drug store in America. If not joyfully satisfied after the first bottle—money back.—Adv.

TARIFFS, DEBTS ARE STRANGLERS OF WORLD TRADE

—BANKER THOS. W. LAMONT

Partner Of Morgan & Co. Gives Opinion On World Affairs

New York, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Two strangles of world trade, in the opinion of Thomas W. Lamont, are tariff barriers and an "unnatural stream" of war debt payments. He called the war debts "perfectly just" but "impossible."

The financier's declaration about war debts, coming at a time when the problem has once more leaped to the fore at Washington was greeted with much interest.

Lamont, partner in J. P. Morgan & Co., discussed yesterday "some of the major causes of present-day conditions," telling the Conference of Universities that "the single underlying world-shaking cause" was the World War and "the unwisdom of man, who permitted the war."

After the armistice, he said, the war was transferred from the military to the economic field.

"Here America has been one of the leaders in the economic war," he declared. "In the two drastic tariff increases of 1922 and of 1930 she set standards for the strangulation of trade which other weaker nations felt compelled to emulate."

14 Years Economic War
"Thus, the four years' war on the battlefields of France has been continued by a 14 years' economic war on a world-wide front."

"The 'alibi' of some Americans that our troubles were due to the panic in foreign countries, he said, was hard to sustain, since 'Europe's crisis in the spring of 1931 came 18 months after the American collapse of October, 1929.'"

Mr. Lamont held that the remedy for present economic conditions was in rebuilding the capitalist system and in seeking economic as well as political peace, not in changing to Socialism or Communism.

He struck a note of cheer in declaring that things are beginning to "straighten themselves out."

"The deflation of commodities is almost at an end," he said. "Hard work begins to fill up the gaps. The fingers of a new dawn stretch their tips above the horizon. There are signs of betterment decidedly more tangible than mere hope."

Power From the Rear

The growing tendency of English automobile manufacturers to construct cars with engines in the rear is shown in the car above, displayed recently at the London auto show. It is a Trojan sedan of 10 horsepower. The engine is placed across the body, and the power is delivered direct from the flywheel to the rear axle.

His life has been spent in Lee Center township with the exception of two years in Iowa.

He took an active interest in the religious and educational life of the community and was director for a number of years in a district school. He assisted with the singing in the church and the Sunday school, and with his family, was a faithful attendant of all services.

Mr. Robinson was engaged in farming and truck gardening for many years, afterwards opening a shop for harness and shoe repairing. He was a devoted husband and father and a kind neighbor.

Too Many Fred Waldo's In This Strange News Item

New York, Nov. 17.—(AP)—

There's just a chance—if the long arm of coincidence is long enough—that Fred Waldo of Fairbury, Neb., has something that belongs to the Fred Waldo who turned up in Richmond, Ind. And how the latter Fred Waldo would welcome it!

Over the telegraph wires there came today a news item from Fairbury, saying:

"Fred Waldo of Fairbury has a $344 bank draft and he doesn't know what to do with it. Although it is made payable to Fred Waldo, he's hunting another Fred Waldo to claim it. The Fairbury Waldo says he is sure the money doesn't belong to him, and has asked newspapers to find the right Fred Waldo."

Seven minutes later, just to show how strange coincidence can be, there came another news item saying:

"Richmond, Ind.—A stranger hailed Herbert Ray, Police Chief, who was walking along a main street in civilian clothes. 'Brother,' the stranger said, 'I'm going to knock two bits out of you.' The Chief said 'Is that so?' and went into action. In police court, the prisoner said he was from Oak Park, Ill., and that his name was Fred Waldo."

Hollywood is seeing double these days. Along comes a recognized star, with some peculiar facial features. And no sooner does that star win recognition than other stars bob up with that same distinguishing feature. For instance: Joan Crawford's eyes. Three guesses which is hers above. Give up? The eye at the right is Joan's. That at the left is Sheila Terry's. Sheila is a blond, Joan a brunette. And below, which is the hair, eyes, high forehead and nose of Greta Garbo? Give up again? Greta is at the right. Tala Birell, recently arrived from Germany, is at the left.

SHE TOOK NO CHANCES

BOSTON—People may laugh at superstition, but not Mrs. Thelma I. Morrell. The other day in probate court Mrs. Morrell was stepping onto the witness stand in her suit for divorce from Gerald V. Morrell, when she dropped her glove. Looking at the glove, she said: "I don't like to pick it up. 'It's supposed to be bad luck to pick up your own love.' Her attorney quickly stooped and picked up the glove and returned it to its owner. Mrs. Morrell won her case.

"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by John Charlton, after the famous painting depicting the heroic Charge of the Light Brigade in the face of a withering fire at the battle of Balaclava in the Crimean War (1854). "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes.

No raw tobaccos in Luckies —that's why they're so mild

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

WEEKLY SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

STEWARDSHIP OF MONEY

By WILLIAM E. GILROY

The best of all lessons for study are those which bring the great truths and examples of the Bible into the range of the immediate problems of life today. Surely at the present hour in America there are no more immediate or greater problems than those that are associated with money—the use of it on the part of those who have it, and the problems occasioned by its lack on the part of those who do not have it.

Never, perhaps, in our national life have there been greater or more widespread discrepancies between the situations of people than there are today, and these discrepancies are no longer of the sort that can be attributed to the possession of certain qualities of character, thrift, and energy, or the lack of these things.

The difference between many people is not a difference of character, or a difference of ability, or a difference of willingness, or competency to serve society, but simply a difference of status in which the one person happens to have a job and the other person happens to be without.

In the face of present conditions we can no longer, even for a moment, think that the unemployed are the unemployable, and that moneyless people are without money because of some dire fault in themselves or in their ways of managing their lives.

We are face to face with serious conditions which affect good and bad alike, and in the face of such conditions the elemental and ultimate responsibilities of human brotherhood and solidarity are enforced as they never were before.

It is here that the teaching of the Bible is clear and incisive, and different, on the whole, from any other teaching in life. The suggestion of modern society has long been that a man was justified in pursuing his own ends and in seeking success according to ordinary standards. In fact, if he happened to be successful, society was not too scrupulous in surveying the means by which he attained to that success. Trickery and greed and dishonesty in business have too frequently been disregarded where the man who practiced them became wealthy.

But when we look to the Bible we are in another world—a world of clear cut and definite responsibilities in which a man has duties toward his fellow men as well as privileges of improving his own position. Our lesson is drawn from varied passages of Scripture but all unite in emphasizing this responsibility and the fact that unless a man recognizes his social obligations and responsibilities no measure of worldly success can justify his life or make him in any true sense noble.

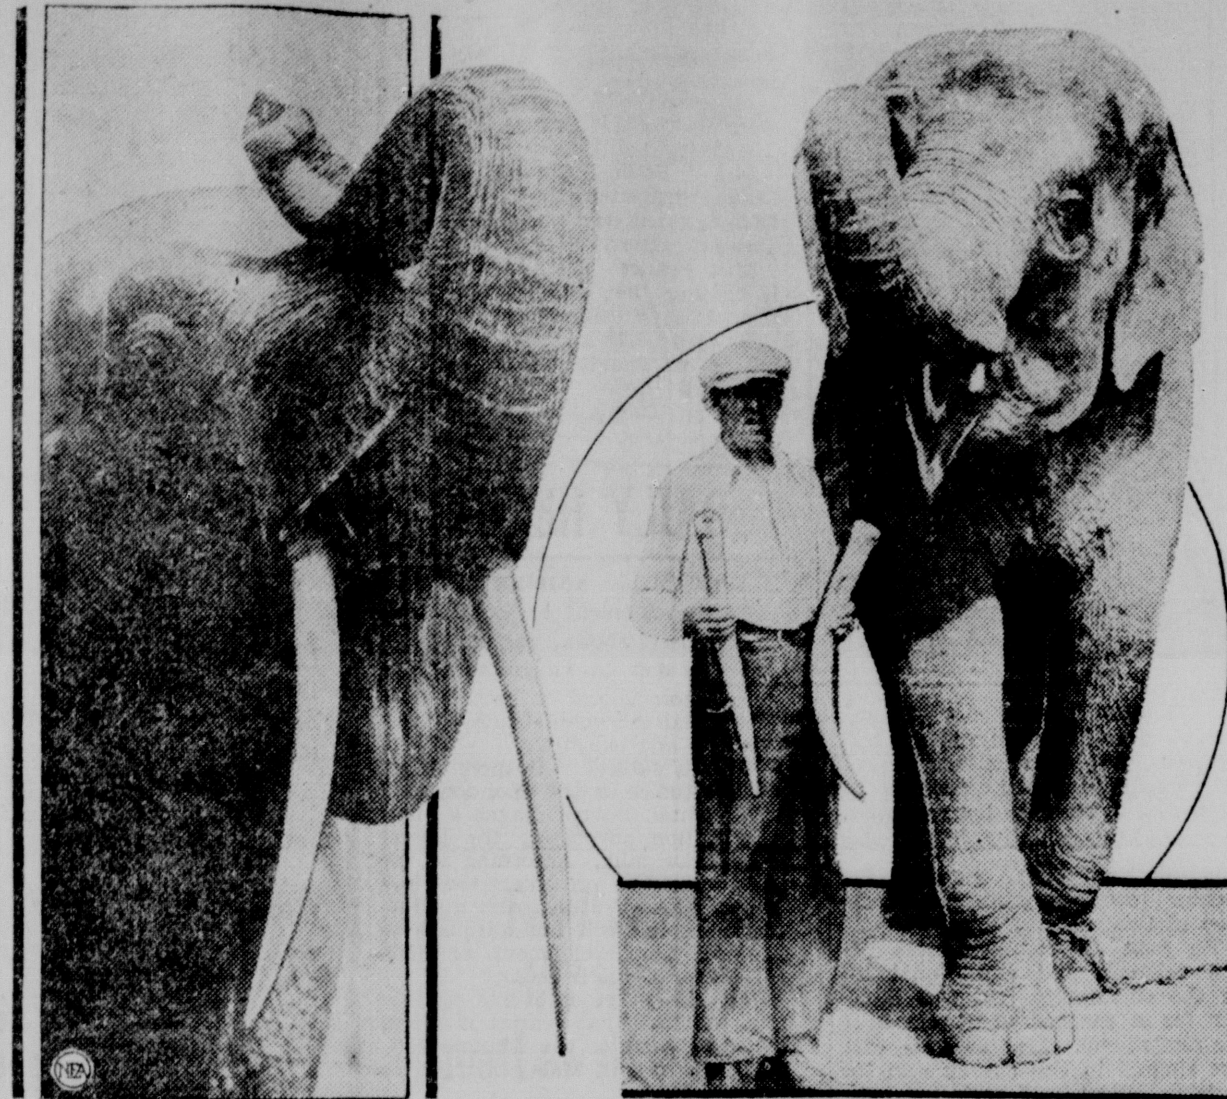

The golden text particularly strikes straight home in its incisive comment upon the lust of possession: "Take heed and keep yourself from all covetousness; for a man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth." Luke 12:15.

It is not a time when we should be minimizing the importance of things. Money, or what money represents, is, after all, really important, as every one knows who happen to be without it.

But it is equally true that to have more than one needs and not to share it with those who are in dire need is bad for the soul of the man who possesses, as the condition of need is bad for both soul and body of the one who has not the very necessities of life.

If we could turn to the Bible standard of values and the Bible way of living and seek to bring the things that are needful and worthwhile into the use and service of all, what a vast change we could soon effect in a nation where at present twelve millions of people are in want, or are finding relief only through the ministry of Here you see Mary as a roaring bull and as herself, her makeup removed.

How much more effective would be a society of brotherhood in which men were sharing their quest and sharing life's rewards.

THIEF IS FORGIVEN

Knoxville, Tenn. — Rev. William E. Clark surely deserves the name of "The Good Man of Venoce." Rev. Clark, whose clothes were stolen recently while he was out distributing Sunday school literature, has completely forgiven the thief. He says that the man who took the clothing probably needs it very badly. He hopes his message will reach the man and eventually lead him to different ways of acquiring things he needs.

BLIND TRIANGLE

Pittsburgh, Pa. — Mrs. Mildred May Henderson, 33, doesn't have to see the man she marries. She just picks out a man and marries him. Mrs. Henderson, who is blind, received a divorce from Charles A. Henderson — also blind at 1 P. M. and at 2 P. M. she married Oliver Kaufman, 23, years of age and blind. They were married by Justice of Peace James G. McFarland, who has only one arm.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks pink, don't swallow a lot of salt, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name, Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Keenest a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

Sidelights In News In Capital Of United States

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington.—The official gardener for Uncle Sam is going to move into his new home within a few months.

At the foot of Capitol Hill, within a stone's throw of the Capitol itself, the government is building for George Hess and his botanic garden a magnificent new home.

His horticultural collection, gathered from all parts of the world, will be moved over to more spacious quarters.

For more than 16 years Hess, director of the national botanic garden, has scoured the world for plants and flowers.

To China, Japan and the Philippines he has gone in his quest. He has made three trips to the Hawaiian Islands to make a study of plant life there.

The result is that he has built a bit of countryside at the foot of the hill a garden of real beauty.

HE LIKES HIS WORK—

Hess' ambition is to make his garden the greatest of its kind in the world. His work to him is a real labor of love.

He seems happier with his plants than any place else. His large hands gently touch green shoots and leaves as he moves among them. He stops to explain how this or that flower was produced through patient crossing and re-crossing of mother plants.

Nothing seems to delight him more than to talk of his garden which under his management has become the show place for the nation. Tourists make it one of their major ports of call when visiting the capital.

And he shows them his sansevieria which he grew from a mere clipping of the leaf, patiently tells them of the plant's dependency on the mother shoot until maturity when the parent plant dies.

And if they show enough interest, he'll tell them about his hobby—vegetables.

RAISES VEGETABLES TOO—

Next to his garden vegetables are his hobby.

He acquired his first interest in the subject from a Chinese gardener, an interest that has grown until the information he has would fill a book.

He calls his home—in the garden—Liberty Hall and makes of it a mecca for gardeners.

PAIN DEADENED CHEST COLDS LOOSENED WITHOUT DRUGS

Get quick relief from neuralgia pain, sciatica pain, neuritis pain, rheumatic pain, lame back, stiff neck, headache, strain and chest colds by rubbing plenty of Baume Bengé (pronounced Ben-Gay) on the spot. It doesn't blister or stain. Rub it in till it sinks down and soothes the pain or breaks up the chest cold. Take no drugs, for any drug that is powerful enough to "deaden" pain or loosen a chest cold may not be good for you.

But beware of imitations. Ask your druggist for Baume Bengé by name (called "Ben-Gay" in English). There are many analgesic balms, mostly cheap imitations of Ben-Gay made out of synthetic drugs. That is why they are cheap. That is also why they are ineffective. Insist on Ben-Gay and you will get real results.

DAILY HEALTH

RAW MILK AND TEETH

The development of sound teeth, it has been shown, can be influenced by diet, in which the important factors appear to be the presence of an adequate supply of vitamin D and calcium.

To this subject, the director of dental studies at the London hospital dental school makes a new contribution advocating the liberal use of raw milk. According to the facts which he presents, the administration of a diet rich in vitamin D is in itself not adequate to prevent the development of dental caries, or tooth decay.

He cites in proof of his contention the fact that caries is found in 50 per cent of the Chinese coolies who work in Malay stripped to the waist.

These coolies are exposed to the powerful sun, and receive what might be considered the equivalent of adequate doses of vitamin D. Similar observations have been made in South Africa.

In milk, he claims, there is a balance of vitamin content and an abundance of calcium in a particularly suitable form, which favors the development of sound teeth and therefore resistance to caries.

He advocates the use of raw milk for the reason that boiling or pasteurization appears to alter and render ineffective part of its vitamin content.

Raw milk, he therefore urges, should form part of the daily food of the individual from the time that the child is weaned until 14 years of age.

There is, of course, one serious drawback to this recommendation and that is, that ordinary raw milk is not safe for human consumption. If raw milk is to be used, it must come from cattle tested and found free from tuberculosis.

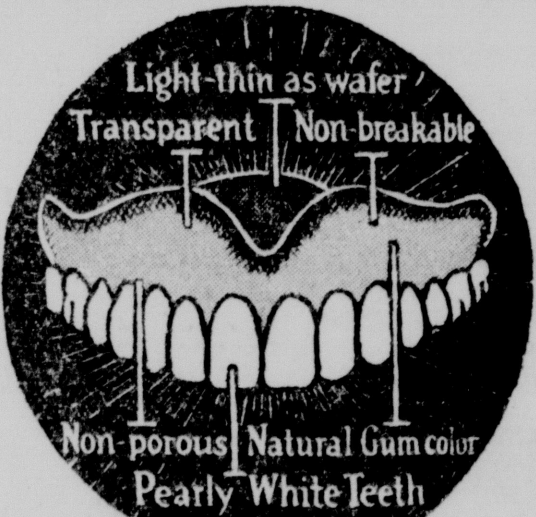

Also, the milk must be handled with great care to prevent contamination.

PREPARE WAYS FOR GERMANY TO REJOIN CONFABS

British Delegate Made A Suggestion To Arms
Conference Today

Geneva, Nov. 17.—(AP)—The British Foreign Secretary, Sir John Simon, proposed to the world disarmament conference today that the German demand for arms equality be satisfied by allowing the Reich to have the same kind of armaments as other nations.

The British government also proposed as a part of a scheme to solve the equality problem that all the European states join in a solemn affirmation that under no circumstances will they attempt to resolve any present or future differences among them by force.

Sir John declared the limitation of Germany's armaments should be contained in the same disarmament convention which defines limitations on the armaments of others.

This limitation on Germany, he said, should operate for the same period and be subject to the same methods of revision as was the case in other countries.

Object of Conference

The object of the disarmament conference," Sir John said, "is to bring about the maximum of positive disarmament that can be agreed upon—not to authorize in the name of equality increased armed strength."

"Furthermore, the full realization in practice of the principle of equality cannot be achieved at once."

The Italian delegate announced Italy was supporting the British stand on equality, and President Arthur Henderson praised the suggestion, expressing the hope Germany would soon rejoin the conference.

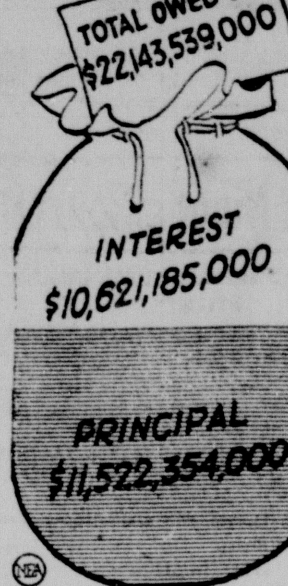

French Stand Firm

The French delegate, Rene Massigli, then announced France stood by its proposals of Monday for conscript armies in Europe and an equality of basis in armaments.

Sir John did not treat on the French plan for disarmament and security as it had been reported he would, dismissing the point with the assertion that the idea would require long study.

American official quarters gave the opinion that the British proposals ought to be sufficient to prepare the way for Germany's return to the conference if the Germans sincerely wish a disarmament agreement.

By NEA Service—

The chart shown herewith gives the background of the war debt puzzle that President Hoover and President-elect Roosevelt are now trying to solve, as the result of the action of European nations in asking suspension of debt payments due to the United States on December 15, with a view to revision.

The big money bag at the left shows the total amount of the war debts owed the United States by the 13 principal debtor nations, due to be paid in 60 years. It also shows the division between principal and interest.

The bars show the individual status of the five biggest debtors—how much they owe, how much of this is represented by principal and by interest and how much they have paid on their debt thus far. It will be noticed that the interest rates differ widely, because of varying concessions granted by Uncle Sam.

For every dollar originally loaned Europe, the United States is due to collect approximately $2 in principal and interest over the period of 60 years. In this sense there has been no "cancellation" of any part of the debt. But in the debt settlement agreements with the various nations several years ago the original interest rates were greatly reduced on the grounds of "capacity to pay" and for other reasons. On this basis, some statisticians figure we have "cancelled" 23.9 per cent of Europe's obligations.

The gist of the present situation is that these nations intended to pay their debts to Uncle Sam with reparations payments they collected from Germany. Germany, according to the Young Plan, was supposed to pay the allies $26,377,000,000 in principal and interest—in installments over the next 59 years. Similarly, these nations were to pay the United States principal and interest to a total of $22,143,539,000.

At Lausanne last June, Great Britain and other nations agreed—on condition—to let Germany off for $714,000,000 instead of the $26,377,000,000. The condition was that the allies would let Germany off, provided the United States would radically reduce or cancel the war debts.

The United States position has been that the reparations due from Germany and the war debts owed this government are unrelated—that, regardless of any reduction in German reparations payments, Uncle Sam still expects payment of the debts owed him.

A very large part of the money that Uncle Sam has already collected from his war-time associates, has come originally from America in the form of post-war loans to Germany. Fairly recent figures show that in a certain period the allies paid Uncle Sam $2,000,000,000 on their debts. In this same period, Uncle Sam had lent Germany $2,500,000,000 and Germany had paid $2,000,000,000 in reparations to the allies. Thus, in practice, this government had lent Germany all she had paid her creditors and a half billion more.

ANNUAL ARMS, DEBTS COST COMPARED

This chart shows—by comparative scale—how the five principal European debtor nations are spending for military purposes each year an amount much greater than their scheduled debt payments to the United States—a fact cited by advocates of reduced armaments.

The figures on armament costs are as of 1931 (with the exception of Belgium, which is for 1930) and the debt figures represent the payments due in the fiscal year 1932. These payments were postponed by the Hoover one-year moratorium, now expired.

Combined, European debtor nations were scheduled to pay the United States about $247,000,000 in 1932 toward the retirement of their debts. Their combined expenditures for armaments represent about $2,250,000,000 a year, or nine times that much.

Pro Wrestling In Bad In Maryland

Baltimore, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Professional wrestling was in danger today of being banned in Maryland as being "nothing but rough, brutal clowning."

Denouncing the bouts he saw at a weekly show here Tuesday night

State Senator Joseph L. Donovan, who has been a wrestling fan for thirty years, said he intends to "push this thing for all its worth" at the next session of the State Legislature.

He explained that if the wrestlers do not "clean their own house"—or if the State Athletic Commission does not do it—he will propose a law either to ban wrestling entirely, or to prohibit exhibitions of the type he described.

WATCH THE DOGS!

Salt Lake City, Utah.—If you see a dog on your golf course, keep your eye on your golf balls. Players Nibley Park course found a new racket involving a boy and a dog recently. The boy had trained the dog to run after balls that had been hit out of sight by players. The dog would bring the balls back to the boy and he'd pocket them. When a foursome caught the pair in the trick, both disappeared and haven't been seen since.

Tiger Is Afraid Of Lion, Beatty, Trainer, Declares

Chicago, Nov. 17.—(AP)—A tiger is afraid of a lion.

That's what Clyde Beatty, credited with being the only animal trainer to have succeeded in working with the two species in one cage, had to say today on the often discussed subject of which animal is the more fearless.

And Beatty bases his observation on 11 years of wild animal training for circus and screen, during which this slender 27-year-old former Bainbridge, Ohio, youth has made more than 25 visits to hospitals to have chewed and clawed portions of his anatomy repaired.

Beatty explained that lions and tigers have a different code of battle.

"A lion has some sense of brotherhood. He will pitch in and help a fellow lion out in a fight. But not so the tiger. He will sink away or coolly watch his kinsman get chewed up. His idea, apparently is every tiger for himself."

And so when an argument breaks out between a tiger and a lion in a cage of mixed animals, the latter knows he can count on help but the tiger has to fight his own battle."

But when it is one lion against one tiger with no re-enforcements for the "king of beasts" the tiger can give his majesty plenty of concern, Beatty said.

Beatty is en route to the winter training quarters of a circus to get 40 lions and tigers for use in a motion picture of wild animal life under the big top.

Among these big cats, all of which he trained, is a lion named "Nero," which nearly put a period to Beatty's career when it attacked him at Peru, Ind., last year. This same lion was credited with saving his life a year earlier in Detroit when it jumped on a tiger that already had downed Beatty.

RELIEF DEPOTS IN COOK COUNTY MAY CLOSE SOON

The Legislature May Not Be Able To Prevent Their Closing

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 17.—(AP)—With the Illinois General Assembly in adjournment until Monday, Edward L. Ryerson, Jr., chairman of the Illinois Emergency Relief Relief Commission, today was fearful that a legislative program could not be adopted in time to prevent closing of relief stations December 1.

"I am afraid," Ryerson said, "that December 1 will arrive before this legislation will be approved and our funds will have been exhausted by that time."

"In that event, we would be forced to close our relief stations in Cook county, for we cannot get further aid from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation until we have shown that Illinois has done its best to provide its own relief."

The legislation referred to by Ryerson was the so-called Cook County Charity Bill, a measure whereby Cook county would be authorized to issue $17,000,000 in bonds without referendum, the proceeds to be used for relief until a definite revenue providing program has been enacted by the next General Assembly which convenes in January.

The adjournment was taken when it became apparent to leaders that not enough members of the House would be on hand today to consider the bill.

Before adjournment the House voted on two other measures—the optional county sales tax and the Megs Senate bill to allow counties to issue bonds in anticipation of gas tax monies. The vote indicated both would be defeated so the sponsors, desiring to seek passage when more of the members were present, succeeded in having them laid over until next week.

Chess Champion Is After Chicago Game

Chicago, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Dr. Alexander Alekhine, world's chess champion, will confer with Chicago and national officials November 22 concerning plans for a world's championship match during the 1933 World's Fair.

Plans are being made to have Dr. Alekhine defend his title here next year against Jose Capablanca, Cuban star.

During his day's visit in Chicago, the champion will give an exhibition at the Hamilton Club, playing 30 games over the boards simultaneously.

CURTAIN FALLS ON LAST OF BIG TIME THEATERS

Pictures To Supplant
Vaudeville At The Palace, New York

New York, Nov. 17.—(AP)—There was sadness along what the actors call "the main stem" last night as the curtain fell sine die on "big-time" vaudeville.

The Palace theatre, goal of the novice and pride of the star, played its last "bill" and gave up to the movies, thus going the way of its sisters on the once mighty circuit of entertainment that stretched from coast to coast, from Canada to the Rio Grande.

For 20 years it was the apex of the "big time," the pace setter, and the show place for showmen.

Its dressing rooms were dingy, hot, and stuffy. Its stage, compared with some that have been built recently, was small. Actors never complained of these things, though, for appearance there meant too much. Its seats held what was paradoxically considered the most critical and most appreciative audience possible.

Pessimism about the Palace began the first of this year when it dropped its traditional policy of two-day vaudeville in favor of continuous performances with motion pictures added.

Officials of Radio-Keith-Orpheum, successor to what was once simply known as the Keith Circuit, say that vaudeville bills have become too expensive for a theater with the limited seating capacity of the Palace.

Nevertheless, they maintain that following the run of the present picture, they will put back some kind of vaudeville picture fare. In the meantime they are concentrating on plans for two theaters in Radio City.

J. C. HOWERTON, EDITOR OF THE CUERO (TEXAS) RECORD, SAYS:

THAT newspaper advertising will ever play an important part in the business world. It's a business getter when times are good. It's the "life saver" when business is slow. In fact, newspaper advertising is the one cure for sick stock which has been "laid up" for some time. In the small town it is perhaps more valuable than in the city. FINE DISPLAY OF MUMS AT FLORAL CO. GREENHOUSES

Dixon Floral Company
 Expects To Pick Ten Thousand Blossoms

The greenhouses of the Dixon Floral Company, north of the city, are a true bery of beauty and bloom at this time of the year. The long bed of vari-colored blossoms of chrysanthemums of many varieties immediately attracts the attention of the visitor and it is with great pride that Louis Knick explains the care with which these plants are handled for many months to develop the large blossoms as well as the healthy pom poms of the much smaller bloom.

More than 3500 plants of different varieties of pom-poms and chrysanthemums have developed the largest crop of bloom in several years at the Dixon Floral Company's greenhouses this fall. Mr. Knick estimates that about 10,000 blossoms will be represented in the pickings before the first of the year. Some of the early varieties are almost exhausted but these are being replaced with the mid-season and late plants which are now producing blossoms. They represent varieties from the neat little pom-pom of white, yellow and bronze, to the massive Turner blossom, largest of the 'mum varieties.

The chrysanthemums are not the only crop developed at this time of the year at the greenhouses. There are long beds of carnations, where hundreds of blossoms are picked early each morning, winter potted plants and beds of spring bloomers. An interesting afternoon can be spent in visiting the greenhouses and viewing the extensive culture of blossoms and plants in the modern plant.

Mr. Knick has equipped his green houses, with the most modern heating equipment a few weeks ago with the installation of another large boiler. The system is now automatic, the proper temperatures being furnished in each growing house as desired. Two large boilers supply heat to the houses at this time of the year.

PAT HARRISON
 CITES PROPOSED
 PARTY PROGRAM
 Calls For Expenditure Cuts By Federal Government

Cleveland, Nov. 17.—(AP)—A balanced budget through expenditure cuts and curtailment of useless Federal activities rather than increased taxation, and negotiation of international reciprocal trade agreements pending piecemeal revision of the tariff were suggested as head-liners for the new Democratic congressional program today by Senator Pat Harrison.

The Mississippian, slated for chairman of the Senate Finance committee which handles all revenue legislation, told the annual convention of the American Botanical Association that the new administration also must sponsor measures for farm, railroad and flood relief.

Expressing the conviction that President-elect Roosevelt would select the “strongest cabinet” ever named, Harrison said he hoped Mr. Roosevelt would “silence some of the foghorns who are constantly blasting forth trouble and fear. I think it prudent to announce, as possible the selection of at least his Secretaries of State and Treasury and Attorney General.”

Declaring a balanced budget could be obtained only in two ways, by reducing expenditures or increasing taxes, and that tax cuts had already been tapped to the limit, he said, “I would seem that the wisest policy to pursue is the one pledged in the Democratic platform—x x x the reduction of the many unnecessary and useless functions of the Federal government to a point where our receipts and expenditures balance.”

Bissonette Ready To Resume Duties

New York, Nov. 17.—(AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers' worries over their first base problem, which were reaching such alarming proportions that it was reported they were attempting to buy Jim Bottomley or Pat Crawford from St. Louis, have been calmed considerably by the reappearance of a sound and agile Del Bissonette.

Del, weighing 190 pounds and full of pep, dropped into the Dodger offices yesterday and proved by various feats that he had fully recovered from the operation for a leg infection that kept him in the hospital during most of the 1932 baseball season. He is ready to play first base for the Dodgers next season. Bissonette said, “and,” he added, “when I get back about eight or ten years from now, I think I'll be a doctor. I've made quite a study of medicine, operations and hospitals you know.”

The Railroads Of The Country And Motor Trucks

Attention has been drawn several times to the increasing need for regulation of motor trucks carrying freight in competition with the railroads. Regardless of individual opinion as to the past history of the roads, it must be admitted that they are to a large degree a part of the public wealth, representing a large investment which must be protected if only for the good of industry as a whole.

Places Railroads in Weak Place
 Another instance of the weak position in which the railroads find themselves as a result of the rigid regulation to which they are subject (while trucking carriers are allowed to operate unhampered), has come to light recently.

In connection with the “store door” delivery systems which most of the roads have established to compete with motor trucks, it has been pretty definitely determined that such service is illegal. But, unlike the motor operators, the railroad must fix its rates and make them public.

Competition One-Sided
 Furthermore, the railroad must take what freight is offered them a condition not imposed upon the motor truck operators. Thus, the railroads are forced into a one-sided competition, in which they must carry, at a predetermined price, all the freight which does not look profitable to the trucking companies.

The latter occupy an advantageous position. They know their competitors' prices while being able to adjust their own to suit each individual case, and without being obliged to carry merchandise which it does not happen to suit.

AGAIN THE CRY, BALANCE BUDGET SWEEPS CONGRESS

All Branches of National Government Study Problem

Washington, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Faced by need for extraordinary efforts to balance the budget, executive, legislative and administrative branches of the government each in its own way today was busy devising avenues of aid. President Hoover, already agitated by the war debt issue that soon must be faced, had an appointment in the afternoon with J. Clawson Rood, the Director of the Budget, whose office has been studying the situation for months. At the Treasury, where Secretary Mills has gathered the latest information available to help the President with his annual message to Congress, figures today showed the deficit as of November 15 had passed $709,000,000.

Since July expenditures have approached $1,343,000,000. At the Capitol the House Appropriations committee got to work on the first of the annual money bills to keep the government running.

Byrns Predicts Cuts
 Chairman Byrns predicted the Treasury and Postoffice departments' funds for which are being reviewed first, will be allotted less than the $1,056,000,000 allowed last year.

In administration quarters acquainted with the fiscal outlook, it was said the deficit for the year would not be so bad, but no figure was given as to the probable amount.

Although no official information was given for quotation, it was said that the administration had told Congress during the last session that expenditures must be cut $350,200,000 below the budget figures and that expenditures which were authorized by Congress would cause the expenditure of more than President Hoover's original budget submitted last December.

The recommendations made last winter for reductions, followed the largest expenditures in the history of the nation in peace times, with the 1932 fiscal year ending with a deficit of nearly $3,000,000,000 after expenditures had totaled over $5,000,000,000.

President Hoover's budget estimates submitted last year totaled $4,112,900,000.

Seek New Tax Sources
 The administration statement on the situation followed assertions by Congressmen of their intention of seeking new tax sources. It was said that the new taxes were bound to be ineffective so far as full yield is concerned until the fiscal year 1934, and that the members of Congress apparently had failed to take into consideration the fact that income taxes will be collected in March for the 1932 calendar year, and will effect a reduction in the deficit.

No government official has estimated how much income tax will be collected in the March payments but the earlier hopes were that they would run $300,000,000 or more. The new excise taxes have been slow in producing receipts, due to officials have said to the fact that many people purchased large amounts of goods before the law went into effect last June and that the government has as yet failed to obtain the full measure of return from the levies.

Week-end MURDER

GABRIELLE E. FORBUSH
 © 1932 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

The story opens with a prologue in which a murder is committed by a homicidal maniac. Later he boards a train for Long Island, thinking of the pleasant week-end he is to have there. The name of the murderer is not disclosed.

The scene shifts to the Long Island home of LINDA and TOM AVERILL, married three years and much in love. The Averills have five guests for the week-end: COUSIN AMOS PEABODY, elderly, distant relative of Linda's; CAPTAIN DE VOS, handsome Belgian representing a European perfume manufacturer with whom Averill hopes to do business; MR. STANTLANDER, middlewestern manager of the firm Averill works for; MARVIN PRATT, former classmate of Linda's; and LIAN SHAUGHNESSY, Irish writer on a lecture tour. Cousin Amos immediately makes trouble. He quarrels with Shaughnessy because the Irishman holds liberal political views; plays golf with Stantlander and infuriates him by criticizing his game; discusses prohibition with DeVos at the Country Club and declares DeVos is “no gentleman.” It is finally agreed that Cousin Amos is to leave early the next morning.

That night, while the others are downstairs, waiting to go to the Country Club dance, Pratt enters Cousin Amos' room and the two men's voices are heard in a quarrel. Linda tries to find out what the trouble is but can not.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VIII

TOM AVERILL started violently. “Linda, do you really cling to that wild idea?” Annoyance at his own nervousness sharpened his voice. “After all—heavens, girl, do you think we're harboring a gang of murderers?”

“I'm not ragging you, Tom,” Linda spoke compassionately. “It is hot and I know you're all fagged out—but this is serious. To answer your question, I do. Potential ones, anyhow.”

“But the only ones Bunty irritated—that we know of—were Pratt and Cousin Amos.”

“Oh, Marvin always had a temper. I remember—”

“Why omit your eminent cousin?” inquired her husband caustically. “Surely anyone who boasts of his fine physique and muscle and cold baths and such should be able to smash up a little dog—and his precious dignity was badly affronted.”

Linda was determined not to quarrel. “Perhaps. But remember he went upstairs last night when we began to play bridge and I distinctly heard him snoring—he'd have to be told he snored, wouldn't he?—when we came up hours later.”

Tom relented. “Yes—he has a clear alibi. And, after all, he hasn't the temperament. A man who won't play cards because it might excite him and start a blood pressure and who can't get up late because the early morning hours are too precious to miss, well, I think he misses a lot but this time he misses being suspected.”

“Uh-huh. Before we go down tell me how we'll divide up to go over to the dance.”

“Any way you see, Blinks.”

“Suppose I take Marvin with me in the roadster and you take the rest in the other car. That all right with you?”

“Perfectly. I'll go now and tell DeVos about Cousin Amos.”

AS though anxious to make up to her for the trouble of the day, Linda's guests rallied so delightfully at dinner that she felt a surge of confident relief.

Her confidence lasting, she ran upstairs after dinner and stopped at her cousin's room in a mood so cheerful that she had to conceal it out of consideration for his supposedly unsettled health.

“What do you suppose Cousin Amos wants of him?” she reflected. “Well—he knows we're waiting.”

As they started downstairs, Linda heard the door opposite Cousin Amos' room open and knew that Marvin was just behind them. At that second the old man called “Mr. Pratt!”

“What do you suppose Cousin Amos wants of him?” she reflected. “Well—he knows we're waiting.”

“What do you suppose Cousin Amos wants of him?” she reflected. “Well—he knows we're waiting.”

“What do you suppose Cousin Amos wants of him?” she reflected. “Well—he knows we're waiting.”

Pratt followed the question by an equally strange little laugh. “Your—husband permits?” he asked.

“Sure you don't mind my leaving you, Cousin Amos?”

“Not at all, my child, not at all. I should hate to feel I was interfering with your pleasure.”

From the table on which stood a glass of water and a dish with apple, fruit knife and serviette neatly laid out, Cousin Amos ostentatiously picked up a copy of “Marcus Aurelius”—and then started slightly. Leaning forward, he threw a silk handkerchief negligently over a larger book beneath the leather-bound classic—a trifle too negligently, thought Linda, whose shrewd suspicions pointed to something sprightly in the way of modern fiction.

“He is rather an old dear,” she murmured at the stair head and then frowned and laughed. “Tom, do you hear that? The moment our backs were turned, he opened that casement window on the balcony! I especially asked him not to. I might have known he wouldn't give it up so easily!”

“Your ears must be pointed!” exclaimed her husband. “Why wasn't it anyone opening any window?”

“I know the particular grunt and squeak that darned thing gives when it's forced. Well, I hope it doesn't blow up a rain tonight. It won't stay closed—and he'll have to listen to it squeak back and forth all night. Then he'll wish he hadn't!”

As they started downstairs, Linda heard the door opposite Cousin Amos' room open and knew that Marvin was just behind them. At that second the old man called “Mr. Pratt!”

“What do you suppose Cousin Amos wants of him?” she reflected. “Well—he knows we're waiting.”

Introducing Next President Of United States

(Editor's Note: This is the third of six articles on President-Elect Franklin D. Roosevelt, revealing little incidents in his every-day life, his traits of character, his philosophies and interests.)

By WALTER T. BROWN
(Associated Press Staff Writer Who Accompanied Roosevelt on His Campaign)

Albany, N. Y. (AP)—Meals in the household of President-Elect Franklin D. Roosevelt are "formal" by designation, but in reality they are most "informal."

Mr. Roosevelt for years has breakfasted in bed. He has two reasons for this. One is because he enjoys it; the other is because he can read and dictate letters, and even on occasions receive visitors while eating.

When in Albany and at the state capitol Mr. Roosevelt often eats luncheon at his desk. Frequently he has a guest or two and they dine with him off the improvised table.

The evening meal in the Roosevelt household always has been supper, never dinner. Seldom are there only members of the family at this meal. Mrs. Roosevelt says she never knows if there are to be "five or fifty in for supper." But regardless of the number, or their places in society, there soon is an easy, free flow of conversation.

Mr. Roosevelt sits at one end of the table, Mrs. Roosevelt at the other. If conversation lags, one of the other always has a joke or an anecdote to relate.

The children have their places in the dinner scheme. An animated discussion between Mr. Roosevelt and Fanny Hurst, the writer, over Russia one evening was followed by 16-year-old John telling of a new horse on the farm at Hyde Park.

Frequently when the family gathers at Krum Elbow, with the President-Elect's mother, Mrs. Roosevelt, the children narrate escapades of modern day youth, intending to shock their grandmother. This appeals to Mr. Roosevelt and he often joins in.

His grandchildren are favorites with the President-Elect. He takes an interest in the play and accomplishments of Anna Eleanor, 5, and Curtis Roosevelt Dall, 2, and Sarah Delano Roosevelt, 8 months old.
